YOUR INVESTMENTS

We provide you with a selection of services based on your needs:

- delegation of the management of your assets to your Bank
- maintaining your investment decisions with more or less advisory services from your Bank
- simple execution of your transactions

These services require the signing of a management mandate or an investment advisory contract, or a registration form to gain access to our trading room. They are accessible subject to a certain asset threshold, as described in the offers below. Rates are applied on the basis of four main categories: management or advisory fees or access rights to the trading room, brokerage fees, the distribution margin for structured products and custody fees.

For better understanding of our rates policy, we have chosen to illustrate it as follows:

- price simulations section p.10 with use cases
- illustration of ex ante costs and charges section p.13
- dedicated appendix for derivative products

ILLUSTRATION OF EX ANTE COSTS AND CHARGES

Information on costs and charges

The European Markets in Financial Instruments Directive, MiFID II, aims to strengthen the stability of financial markets and investor protection, with a particular focus on fee transparency. In accordance with these regulations, you will find below illustrations of your estimated costs and charges. The costs are divided into different categories as prescribed by the Directive:

1. Costs & charges related to investment and/or ancillary services provided and invoiced by the Bank (as a distributor); they are debited from the customer's account either periodically (ongoing and ancillary fees) or on the transaction date (transaction fees). The client is informed of this through a statement of account and, if necessary, a separate transaction notice.

Category of costs	Definition	Examples
One-off charges	All costs and charges paid to the Bank at the beginning or end of the provision of the investment service provided	Deposit charges, account closure fees, securities transfer fees, Lombard credit administrative fees
Ongoing charges	All recurrent costs and charges paid to the Bank for the provision of the service	Management fees, advisory fees, custody fees
Costs related to transactions	All costs and charges paid to the Bank associated with transactions	Brokerage fees, external brokers' fees, stamp duties, taxes, foreign exchange fees, distribution margin on structured products
Charges related to ancillary services	All costs and charges that are associated with ancillary services and are not included in the above-mentioned costs	Lombard credit interests, securities lending charges, research costs
Incidental costs		Performance fees

2. Costs and charges related to your financial instruments (associated with the production and management of these instruments): these fees are collected by our product providers (for illustration, the management company of a fund). These fees are not debited from the client's account but are included in the price of the instrument.

Category of costs	Definition	Examples
One-off charges	Aggregate fees paid to the issuer at the beginning or end of the investment in the financial instrument	Entry / exit fees, structuring fees, distribution fees, management fees charged in advance
Ongoing charges	All ongoing costs and charges related to the management of the financial instrument, deducted from the value of the financial instrument during the investment	Management fees, service costs, financing costs
Costs related to transactions	All costs and charges related to the acquisition or sale of financial instruments	Brokerage fees, external brokers' fees, stamp duties, taxes, foreign exchange fees
Incidental costs		Performance fees

3. Inducements received by the distributor, the Bank: it is a percentage of the ongoing charges related to the financial instrument that the issuer passes on to the distributors. This retrocession is reflected in the following illustrations. The recurring costs of the financial instrument are shown net of the amount retroceded.

Explanations on illustrations

To illustrate the estimated costs and charges, the following elements were considered:

- The value of the portfolio which allows to display costs and charges as a percentage.
- Asset allocation according to our investment policy: this refers to the allocation of assets between the different categories of financial instruments (equities, bonds, funds, etc.), which are subject to differentiated costs and charges per family and therefore have an unequal impact on overall costs.
- The portfolio turnover rate: the volume of transactions carried out (in number and nominal value) over a period directly impacts transaction costs (purchase / sale or subscription / redemption of funds and any foreign exchange costs). A portfolio with many large transactions will generate more transaction costs than a portfolio which activity is limited to a few transactions. As an indication, an annual turnover rate of 40% means that 40% of the portfolio's positions are sold and reinvested during the year.
- The life of the portfolio that influences the average annual transaction cost, depending on whether the initial investment has already been made or is expected to be made. Indeed, the creation of a portfolio requires a high number of transactions in the first year for purchases / subscriptions, as well as in periods of disinvestment (higher number of sales / redemptions); in fact, transaction fees may be higher in these periods. The share of fees associated with these transactions in the total cost of the portfolio is higher if the life of the portfolio is short and decreases as the life of the portfolio increases. For our illustrations, we did not take into account the constitution of the portfolio but only the current fees during the life of the portfolio over a year.

The information provided in this document is based on our current General Fee Schedule, available on request from your Private Banker. The illustrations of costs and charges below are expressed excluding taxes.

Inducements received by the distributor

As part of distribution agreements with our financial instruments providers, we are entitled to receive commissions from them. Below is additional information on the levels of remuneration received by the Bank, information noted in 2018 and which may change over time.

We draw your attention to the fact that we select these third parties on the basis of objective criteria, both qualitative and quantitative, without taking into account the commissions received. This selection policy is in line with our conflict of interest management policy, available on our website www.societegenerale.lu

Type of financial instruments per classe	Average level of remuneration	Remuneration ranges
Equity and diversified funds	0.81%	from 0.04 to 1.65%
Alternative funds	0.70%	from 0.10 to 1.10%
Diversified funds	0.90%	from 0.60 to 1.40%
Bond funds	0.50%	from 0.03 to 1.12%
Money market funds	0.11%	from 0.02 to 0.45%

Illustrations

To facilitate their understanding, we present the illustrations of the estimated costs and charges in the same format as the Annual Costs and Charges Statement related to financial investments, sent to each client for each of their accounts.

Cost and charge estimates are based on annual assumptions and do not take into account portfolio construction. They are presented in aggregate, in absolute amounts and in percentages.

For structured products in particular, the following assumptions have been made:

- Distribution margin:
  - no margin for discretionary portfolio management
  - for other offers: 0.40% per year, calculated on the basis of the initial life of the product ; observation from January to September 2019
- Third-party one-off charges applicable to all offers: 0.30% per year, calculated on the basis of the initial life of the product
- Up-front margin
- Initial product life: 3 years, based on the average maturity observed on newly traded notes from January to September 2019

Costs related to financial instruments are estimated on the basis of the average costs and charges reported by our issuers:

- funds belonging to our investment universe: based on year 2018
- structured products: based on newly traded notes from January to September 2019

With regard to foreign exchange, the assumption used for all illustrations is as follows: average 2018 (amount) observed exchange costs per offer divided by the assets corresponding to the offer at the end of 2018.

Discretionary portfolio management

The illustration of costs and charges covers 3 discretionary portfolio management offers according to theoretical allocations corresponding to each offer:

- Select offer, based on internal funds and ETF (100% of assets)
- Signature: management offer moderate profile (equities: 0%, bonds 0%, structured products 10%, funds 90%)
- Signature bespoke: tailor-made management offer with a dynamic profile (equities: 65%, bonds 10%, structured products 15%, funds 10%)

Assumptions used:

- Turnover rates as recorded in 2018 by type of offer
- Estimated exchange costs at 0.01%, if applicable
- No inducements received from third parties in accordance with regulations
- In the case of the Tailor-made Signature offer, the assumption of a Lombard credit was adopted and the corresponding fees / interest are based on the following elements: amount €1M, set up during the past year, 0.2% administrative fees, interest rate 1.15% from the disbursement on 15 March

Two conditions are required for inclusion in the Equities category:

- the financial instruments must be equivalent to equities from an economic point of view, and
